SEACM Scholarship Announcement

SEACM is looking for clinical laboratory science or medical laboratory technology students with an exceptional interest in the field of clinical microbiology, to receive a $1000.00 scholarship. Our mission is to promote scientific knowledge of microbiology in the southeastern United States by providing educational opportunities and enhance recognition of clinical microbiologists.

Members of the association and invited speakers to SEACM educational meetings have a strong knowledge base of best practices, and value networking in the field of clinical microbiology. Applicants interested in a clinical microbiology career, may benefit from the opportunity to communicate their qualifications and education to this regional professional organization.

- Requirements to apply: Enrolled or accepted into a NAACLS accredited program in Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia or adjoining state, GPA of 3.0 or higher, and a strong interest in clinical microbiology
- Application deadline is September 01, 2018: Completed SEACM Student Scholarship Application Form, letter of recommendation from a current program director or faculty member, copy of current transcript
- Recipient award: $1000.00, a one-year membership in SEACM
- Application form available in the page on the South Eastern Association for Clinical Microbiology website, <http://seacm.org/scholarship-application/>
- Applicants may submit the information electronically or by US mail. All references, from the referring faculty member, should be sent by separate email or US mail
